Memorial Day's 3 Death Total Is Another High

By The Associated Press

Deaths over the three-day Memorial day holiday a new record today.

123 persons died in traffic accidents, drownings and miscellaneous mishaps. This broke the previous record for a three-day Memorial day holiday in 1952, traffic toll was at least 355, or 15 above the National Council's preholiday estimate of 340 and near the record in 1952. An additional 92 lost their lives in drownings, and 76 in miscellaneous accidents.

President Eisenhower expressed distress over "very high highway fatalities" over the holiday. He said something could be done about it if the nation puts its mind to the problem.

The President made the comment in Washington while congratulating Gomer M. Bailey of Denver, the trucking industry's "driver of the year."

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the safety council, said he was "disappointed" that the traffic toll exceeded estimates but he added:

"Bad as the holiday death toll was, we believe it would have been even worse without the safety activity on state and local level resulting from the White House conference on highway safety called by President Eisenhower in February."

The violent death total compared with 355 in the two-day holiday last year and the record Memorial day total of 571 in a four-day period in 1950.

The Memorial day toll by states, cities, drownings and miscellaneous, included:

California 38, 4, 8; Idaho 2, 0, 3; Montana 3, 0, 0; Oregon 8, 0, 1; Utah 3, 1, 0; Washington 5, 0, 0; Wyoming 2, 2, 0.

Eisenhower Attacks Mind Control Trend

President Eisenhower, in a speech at the 200th anniversary of the founding of Cornell University, attacked the trend of government to establish mind control, thought whether they be agent of a foreign state or demagogue for personal power and public notice." The made no mention of sharp administration differences with Senator McCarthy, R., Wis., in a speech at a dinner.

McCarthy, R., Wis., in a speech at a dinner.

He spoke at the Walton Astoria hotel.

At one point he cautioned against the way communists "ceaselessly attack our social, industrial, educational and spiritual institutions and encourage every type of internal struggle of whatever kind."

Then he declared:

"Easy it is to become an unwitting ally or tool of such conniving. For example, there is no other subject or purpose in which Americans are so completely united as in their opposition to communism. Yet, is there any other subject that seems, at this moment, to be the cause of so much division among us as does the matter of defending our freedom from communist subversion?"

"To this problem we must apply more knowledge and intellect and less prejudice and emotion. We must not permit anyone to inspire quarrels that eventually find good citizens bitterly opposed to other good citizens, when basically all would like to be joined in effective opposition to communism."

Declaring the world is divided into two hostile camps, Eisenhower said there are hundreds of millions on the sidelines, "still undecided in active loyalty."

"Possibly in no other way do the communists so clearly exhibit their fear of the free world achieving real unity as in their persistent efforts to divide and thereby weaken us," he said. "They exploit every difference in view among independent nations to make honest discussion falsely appear, not as a valid characteristic of free sys-

Naval Strategist Believes Allies Should Intervene in Indochina Now

Calif., June 1. W. Cooke, one of the navy's strategists, said today the United States and its allies in Indochina now face the evil of militant

Drawing on his intimate knowledge of the far east, Cooke said:

"It should be clear by now that the growing momentum of the communist plan to destroy the free world can be checked and defeated only by resolute action to terminate the evil of militant communism."

"Yes—provided we go in to win."

He said it is to the interest of the United States and the free world to intervene in Indochina now, to prevent communist seizure of the Red river delta in Tonkin, which tions, but as indication of mutual antagonism.

This doctrine of divide and conquer they apply not only as between nations, but among groups and individuals of the same nation."

Eisenhower spoke of "continuing the revolutionary march of the founding fathers" in the struggle to achieve and preserve freedom, and he added:

"As they roused in mankind the determination to win political freedom from dynastic tyranny, we can ignite in mankind the will-to-win intellectual freedom from the false propaganda and enforced ignorance of communist tyranny."

"Through knowledge and understanding, we will drive from the temple of freedom all who seek to establish over us thought control—whether they be agents of a foreign state or demagogues thirsty for personal power and public notice."

Injured Climber Safe in Hospital

LADY AIR FORCE BASE, Fairbanks, Alaska, June 1 (AP)—George W. Argus, a young soldier marooned for eight days in a lonely tent high on Mt. McKinley, grumbled through a thick growth of beard to day and told his rescuers he was mighty glad to get down off that mountain.

Argus was reported in "surprisingly good shape" at the base hospital here after being snatched from the 6,000-foot level of North America's highest peak late last night. He had been brought nearly a mile down the side of the treacherous mountain by a seven-man rescue team which threaded through ice falls and dangerous terrain to bring him to the 8,000-foot level. A helicopter brought him the rest of the way.

TRUTH IS SMOOTHERED

To an outsider looking at the Mundt committee's 4 to 3 vote to dismiss charges of misconduct against Assistant Defense Secretary Hensel and Francis Carr, committee staff, it surely must appear that these gentleman have been cleared officially.

Yet such is not actually the case. What the decision really means is that the committee does not want the hearings to drag on indefinitely. Consequently, on a strictly partisan vote, it has determined to yield its responsibility for hauling down—under oath—the Hensel and Carr portions of the story.

Take the Hensel matter first. In his formal written reply to the army's charges of improper pressure, Senator McCarthy asserted that Hensel has "masterminded" the army report in an effort to block investigation of him. The senator said Hensel has acted improperly when, as a wartime navy department official, he organized a private company which supplied shipping firms.

These are obviously serious accusations. They clearly are a key part of the senator's case, since one cannot imagine anyone being more important than the alleged "mastermind" of what is said to be an attempt to hamper a congressional committee.

It was argued in the hearings that no charges have yet been developed under oath against Hensel. Naturally not. The charges come from the McCarthy side, and until a few days ago it was the army which was presenting its case. Was the army supposed to accuse Hensel?

McCarthy has not retracted a syllable of his accusations against Hensel. He merely sat silent while the committee voted to shelve the matter. And it means nothing that Hensel's attorney accepted the committee's move.

Charges are outstanding against Hensel, a top defense officer. They have not been repeated under oath, and they have not been answered under oath. They are left hanging in air. What is the final jury, the public, supposed to believe?

As for Carr, admittedly the army has not brought much concrete evidence to support charges that he joined in the alleged McCarthy-Cohn pressures to gain favors for Private David Schine. But he is acknowledged to have been a witness to several important conversations between other principals in the case.

One would have thought the McCarthy side would eagerly seek Carr's testimony as possible corroborative of the countercharges against the army. As a matter of fact, Carr is on record in a written memorandum to the effect that the army tried to use Schine as a "hostage" to get the committee's investigation called off. He added: "I am convinced they will keep right on trying to blackmail us as long as Schine is in the army."

Whatever the committee's vote, Carr still stands accused at least a silent backer of the alleged McCarthy-Cohn pressures on the army. And he still looks as one of the most valuable witnesses the McCarthy side could conceivably call in support of its own allegations.

In dismissing the Hensel and Carr phases of the case, the committee may have shortened the hearings. But it may also have short-circuited the public's prospects of getting the full truth.

CLASSROOM SHORTAGE

A government survey shows that in the school year just closing there was a deficit of nearly 350,000 classrooms. The likelihood is the situation will get worse as the children of World War II marriages stream through the school doors.

Currently before the senate labor and public welfare committee is a proposal authorizing federal aid to the states for new school construction.

However, Secretary Hobby of the department of health, education and welfare has asked that action be delayed. She wants to wait until planned White House and state conferences on the situation can be held, so a more accurate gauge can be put on the ability of local communities to meet construction needs.

There would seem not the slightest reason to doubt Mrs. Hobby's good faith in this matter. Her request for a postponement does not make her an enemy of new school construction, as some of her critics seem to suggest.

But, assuming the best of motives, the effect of a postponement by congress on federal aid would be to increase the classroom deficit through the 1954-55 season, with damaging results upon the educational opportunities of hundreds of thousands of youngsters.

There is always a certain lag between the voting of appropriations and the start of authorized projects, and obviously school buildings cannot be thrown up overnight like tents. If federal action is put off until the 1955 session of congress, the prospects are that the benefits of any aid will not be felt in the form of new schoolrooms until some time in 1956—possibly even later.

An Oregon poker club has banned married men, probably because they are too smart in the ways of bluffing.

POT SHOT

WASHINGTON—Should Uncle Sam use the taxpayers' money to reimburse private, profit-making firms for cash losses suffered from a strike of their employees?

INCORRECT AS IT may seem, this question has been raised in serious form at the senate Appropriations committee's hearings on 1955 budget allowances for airmail pay and subsidies to two international airlines—Pan American, World Airways and Trans World Airlines.

At the request of the Airline Pilots' Association, Sen. Warren D. Magnuson, Washington, quizzed CAB Chairman Chan Gurney and Irving Roth, chief of CAB's rate division, on this subject. What he learned amazed him and other committee members, in view of the fact that the civil aeronautics act gives airline employees the right to strike.

SURPRISING FIGURES—According to these officials, a CAB examiner has recommended that American Overseas Airlines, a Pan Am subsidiary on the Atlantic run, be reimbursed by $466,000 for the pilots' 1947 strike. Underwriting several other disputes in the same way would increase the strike subsidy figure to $900,000.

Roth explained that his staff had taken exception to the examiner's proposal on the ground that "not a penny of extra mail pay should be paid out by the government to underwrite the cost of strikes." But CAB has scheduled a hearing on the matter for June 30. The pilots' association and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield have intervened in opposition to the strike subsidy.

Roth did admit, however, that CAB gives the airlines money to insure that they do not suffer "operating" losses from a shutdown or reduced services. Although the government will not go over enough to roll up actual profits, it does guarantee them against deficits. "Making the company whole," is the technical term.

MOST INTENSIVE STUDY—The current capitol study of the 1955 airmail pay and subsidy allowances in this field is the most thorough and intensive in history. It is due to the insistence of Sens. Hartley M. Kilgore, West Virginia, and John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts, and Rep. John J. Rooney, Brooklyn, on the house side.

The three have brought out that CAB shows great indifference and carelessness in the distribution of these grants, which have amounted to more than one billion dollars since commercial flying was resumed after World War I.

Pan Am, for instance, made a bid to the Pentagon of $130 to fly soldiers and their dependents from Frankfurt to New York, when space is available. Like CAB officials, military men also appear to be partial to Pan Am. The regular fare is $300.

UNCLE SAM FOOTS BILL—But if Pan Am loses heavily on this operation, the government will foot the bill through vastly increased subsidies. Committee members also pointed out that this arrangement would be "unduly discriminatory" against rival airlines, especially the non-certified companies.

Both Kennedy and Kilgore believe that better treatment and bigger business should be given to the smaller lines, if they are equipped to handle it.

They fear that a virtual monopoly has been built up in the field of commercial aviation as a result of the major firms' economic and political influence at Washington, especially during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

A PRIZE THOUGHT—Sen. George W. Malone, Nevada, recently issued so profound a statement that even the most politically and regionally minded colleagues think it the prize of the season, to wit:

"What we should do is to let congress handle the tariff issues and rates, and take it out of politics!"

What concept of education do Americans wish to prevail in their colleges in the years to come?

A concept of education as indoctrinated into some preconceived system of ideas and theories? Or a concept which cultivates independent thinking and the open mind?

The struggle between these two approaches has been going on in American society probably since colonial times. Rarely, however, has it been brought to so sharp a focus as that created by a staff report presented to a select house committee set up to restore the nation's great tax-free foundations.

These foundations were investigated once before in 1932 by a similar committee. This group found that while such vast concentrations of capital should be watched, that although a few "malodorous individuals" had infiltrated some of them, the communists had failed signal to gain control, and that the whole these foundations had been doing a good job and there ought to be more of them.

Rep. B. Carroll Reece (Republican national chairman during the days of the 80th congress) signed this report as a minority member. But evidently he later regretted his assent, and drafted a bill to set up another investigation, of which he is now chairman. He charged that some of these foundations "support efforts to overthrow our government and to undermine our American way of life."

The staff report—though 1400 spectacular—follows Mr. Reece's early hints as to the direction the inquiry would take. And were it not for our confidence that its postulates do not represent a majority American view they would make melancholy reading indeed.

Some of the statements will have to be spelled out before it would be fair to evaluate them. Some, if they mean what we hope they mean, we would go along with—such as the desirability of local support and a measure of local control for schools. (But do they mean a return to the little red schoolhouse—and for universities, too?)

In the main, however, the staff seems troubled by the foundation's part in building what it calls a social science that might change American thought. The principal bogies appear to be "an international viewpoint" and anything that suggests that the course of public policy might be planned.

The foundations receive cooperation from organizations which, in the context, the report deems questionable at the least, but which most people have considered eminently enlightened. Such for instance, as: The National Education Association, the Parent-Teachers association, the National Council of Churches, and the Committee on Economic Development.

There is in all of this an undertone of fear—a fear of changes not understood; a fear like that of a child who finds himself lost, away from the home he thought was all there was to the world; a fear that the "wrong," if allowed to be seen, will prove more attractive than the "right."

What would Thomas Jefferson think of all this? What would the "Founding Fathers" who dared to plan a form of government new and different?

This second, obviously hostile investigation may conceivably unearth some infiltration, find some errors in judgment not discovered by the first committee. But if this staff report is any index, its basic philosophy is a century behind the times. — Christian Science Monitor.

SAFETY EXPERIMENT

Two cities—Hartford, Conn., and Montreal—are currently trying an experiment in control of fire trucks and ambulances, with at least preliminary good results.

They are requiring fire department and other emergency vehicles to obey the traffic signals.

The theory is that any danger from time lost in getting to a fire, an accident or whatever, is less than the danger of accident when the vehicles race without stopping. Drivers do not have to wait for a green light at an intersection, but they must be sure that it is safe to proceed.

This change is not imposed by ordinance in either city but by orders from the heads of the departments. So far, nothing has happened to call for change.—Los Angeles Times.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

POT SHOT

NEW YORK—It may be futile to argue that the income tax is an iniquity against the form of government bequeathed to us by the founding fathers, but that is what it is. Not only is the tax set forth better than I have ever read it to be, but it is a good book.

At the request of the Airline Pilots' Association, Sen. Warren D. Magnuson, Washington, quizzed CAB Chairman Chan Gurney and Irving Roth, chief of CAB's rate division, on this subject. What he learned amazed him and other committee members, in view of the fact that the civil aeronautics act gives airline employees the right to strike.

Surprising Figures—According to these officials, a CAB examiner has recommended that American Overseas Airlines, a Pan Am subsidiary on the Atlantic run, be reimbursed by $466,000 for the pilots' 1947 strike. Underwriting several other disputes in the same way would increase the strike subsidy figure to $900,000.

Roth explained that his staff had taken exception to the examiner's proposal on the ground that "not a penny of extra mail pay should be paid out by the government to underwrite the cost of strikes." But CAB has scheduled a hearing on the matter for June 30. The pilots' association and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield have intervened in opposition to the strike subsidy.

Roth did admit, however, that CAB gives the airlines money to insure that they do not suffer "operating" losses from a shutdown or reduced services. Although the government will not go over enough to roll up actual profits, it does guarantee them against deficits. "Making the company whole," is the technical term.

"Lying Saucer" Sleuths Still

Can't Explain Some Sightings

SHINGON, June 1 (UPI)—The "lying saucer" sleuths are unable to explain about 10 per cent of the phenomena reported to date.

So far this year they have only 18 sightings reported to date.

The students of unidentified flying objects (UFO's) the prospect of getting in 1954 with fewer than half as many flying object reports as last year.

In 1953, 1,700 sightings were reported and investigated. Last year the figure was 428. The present rate is about 208.

Aerial phenomena that give UFO reports still are present, course, and the idea that they drift from outer space still gets some attention. But the force believes—and supports—such theories—that more effective investigating procedures after public education are the answer to the saucer problem.

Air force says:

Evidence has been received which tends to indicate that the United States is being observed from outer space or a government. No object or substance has been received and no photographs of detail have been produced.

As we any UFO's, the air force says, it "would welcome the arrival."

People to contact are at the technical intelligence center, Patterson air force base, N. O., where Capt. Charles E. Sorenson collects saucer data and gives it to air force and other agencies for scientific study.

Over the years, the intelligence have found 80 per cent of sightings explainable as known: balloons, aircraft, atmospheric refraction and birds. Of this year's 210, 70 per cent have been ruled 10 per cent unexplained per cent of the reports considered to be ignored.

Interesting facts turned up by the students are these:

There is a "direct correlation"

in the number of sightings and the publicity given to by the nation's press.

UFO reports increase at those times of year when meteors are seen.

"Lightnings" have been seen by both visual and radar air force said that "temperature-reflection" a natural phenomenon under certain atmospheric conditions can make images from radar scopes as sharp as from airplanes and at speeds ranging from zero to 100 miles per hour.

Radar images from clouds and birds also have been picked up on radar.

Air force gives these explanations for visual sightings:

Aircraft, flying at great heights, reflecting on polished surfaces, are often seen for unknown objects.

Weather balloons and huge hot air balloons are also seen.

Tax Evader Goes To Prison Center

OCEAN CITY, June 1 (AP)—Austin F. McFee, 38-year-old former Wallace slot machine operator convicted of federal income tax evasion, left for Springfield, Mo., today, accompanied by a U. S. marshal.

McFee will serve a five-month sentence in the medical center for federal prisoners. But he faces an additional 12 months unless he makes full restitution within six months. The government claims McFee still owes some $77,000 in penalties, taxes and interest for taxes evaded in 1945 and 1946.

French Civilians in Casablanca Carry Guns as Nationalist Terror Increases

(Editor's note: Last month William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news reporter, during a study tour of the far east Asia, surveyed France's fishing and industrial ports. Now he reports current affairs in North Africa. Ryan reports on the troubled situation in another vital French overseas territory.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

CASABLANCA, MOROCCO, June 1 (AP)—French civilians are carrying guns in this worried city as nationalist terror rises.

Casablanca, Morocco's big metropolis of 700,000 falls silent by night. Streets are virtually deserted. Movie houses and restaurants are bare of customers. French and those Moroccans who are terrorized by extreme nationalists are staying in their homes at night.

Outside the central prison dozens of veiled Moors cling to the bars of the iron gates and wall for their men. Around police stations guarded by native police in red tunics and blue uniforms, crowds are herded daily to have identifications verified as a strict security measure. Unless their papers are strictly in order, they are subject to arrest.

Heavily armed Moroccan government troops roam the streets on bicycles watching for trouble in the Medinas, the native towns. In the Medinas and Bidonvilles—the fantastic slums of Moroccan cities—there is an air of tension. It is there that extreme nationalists carry out terror against Moroccans who are suspected of being pro-French.

Auxiliary troops brought in from country tribes are encamped on hills overlooking the Medinas and Bidonvilles in a state of constant alert.

But despite the extraordinary military measures, terrorism continues. Almost every night there are killings or other violent incidents in Casablanca, scene of the most persistent attacks.

Business people are extremely worried. They say that if the terror continues unchecked another year, their backs will be against the wall. The terror is frightening away both French and foreign capital. Some French are already beginning to pull out of Casablanca.

Officials worry over the worsening business situation, which promises rising unemployment and with it added economic problems for crowded Casablanca and other cities.

One highly placed French official acknowledged it is not impossible that hit-and-run guerrilla warfare will become current here.

Anger has been rising steadily during the nine months since the French ousted Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Yousef and placed 63-year-old Sultan Moulay Mohamed Ben Arafa on the throne of the Sherifian empire.

"There is nobody on the throne," a group of Moroccans told me during an interview in a Moroccan home. "The new sultan is nobody." They added:

"And what is happening? The gulf between French and Moroccans is widening. The gulf will become so wide that Morocco and the rest of North Africa will be thrown fully into the Asian-Middle bloc of nations and become Asian rather than western in outlook.

Teen-Agers Told To Shop Alone

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

One way you teen-agers can show your maturity is to learn to select your own clothes. Taking a friend or two along on a shopping spree may be fun, but it's really unwise.

In addition to learning to rely on your own judgment (so important), making a habit of shopping alone will help you to develop an individual style sense.

Instead of consulting your friends on what to buy, consult fashion and grooming articles in your newspaper. Learn to understand your figure. How to tone bad points, play up good ones.

Then interpret fashion news in the light of what you know about yourself. If you follow this plan, you'll be able to tell far better than any friend what will look best on you.

And you'll gradually develop your style sense, based on your familiarity with your personal needs and current fashion trends.

You'll have to expect to make some errors in the beginning. But that's how anything is learned. Besides, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that the wise choices were entirely your own.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Mary Lou is a pretty, attractive girl whom any boy might be proud to escort. Tony invited her to go with him to the school dance. She accepted his invitation and Tony regarded the matter settled. So did Mary Lou, until Jasper, the handsome, gayest and most admired boy in the group invited her to the same dance. Without an instant's hesitation Mary Lou accepted Jasper's invitation.

"Mother, I'm not going to the dance with Tony. I'm going with Jasper. You've got to get me out of it if somehow."

You don't mean to say that you threw Tony over for Jasper after accepting Tony's invitation? I will not lift a finger to help you and the best thing you can do is to tell Jasper you made a mistake and do it now before you get in deeper."

Mary Lou would not give up the thrill she expected by riding in Jasper's convertible, entering the hall with the catch of the year, so she sent Tony a note saying she had made a mistake, mixed her dates, and really had engaged herself with another boy, and was sorry.

Tony made no sign of distress, nodded to her in his friendly way the next time he met her, but did not stop to talk. Mary Lou went to the dance with Jasper and had a fine time. Tony did not appear. Somehow the story leaked out, as such stories do. Mary Lou's best friend could not keep it to herself so all the girls heard about it, and that meant all the boys as well.

"Oh, all the dirty tricks," said Tony's chum. "She's certainly a two-timer, huh?" Tony said nothing.

Announcing a new gasoline so superior that we guarantee...

BEST
in your car or DOUBLE
your money

New RICHFIELD ETHYL

Now, from the West's most modern refinery comes America's most advanced automotive gasoline—New Richfield Ethyl. You'll say "It's Best," after two fill-ups, or we'll pay DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK on a tankful of gasoline.

No other petroleum company has dared make this offer!

Today's new-car trend to higher compressions, overhead valves, automatic transmissions and more automatic controls demanded this completely new gasoline—the first motor fuel that meets ALL the requirements of today's advance-design cars, yet gives top performance in every car.

YEARS-AHEAD...

FROM THE WEST'S
MOST ADVANCED
REFINERY

Thousands of miles of road testing have proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that New Richfield Ethyl is America's most advanced gasoline. But you are the judge. Test two tankfuls in your own car, in every way. If you do not agree that New Richfield Ethyl gives you the finest performance of any gasoline you have ever used, just follow the conditions of the Guarantee Certificate your Richfield dealer gives you...and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK on a full tank of gasoline.

Why can Richfield make this sensational guarantee? Because Richfield has just completed the installation, at its 540-acre main refinery, of $40,000,000 worth of the most advanced refining equipment known to science. Exclusive processes, made possible by these new facilities, enable Richfield to produce New Richfield Ethyl from multiple components of gasoline stocks and scientific additives never before used in this controlled combination. The result is a gasoline that—

- Increases spark-plug life... reduces misfiring and pre-ignition knock...gives increased power and mileage.

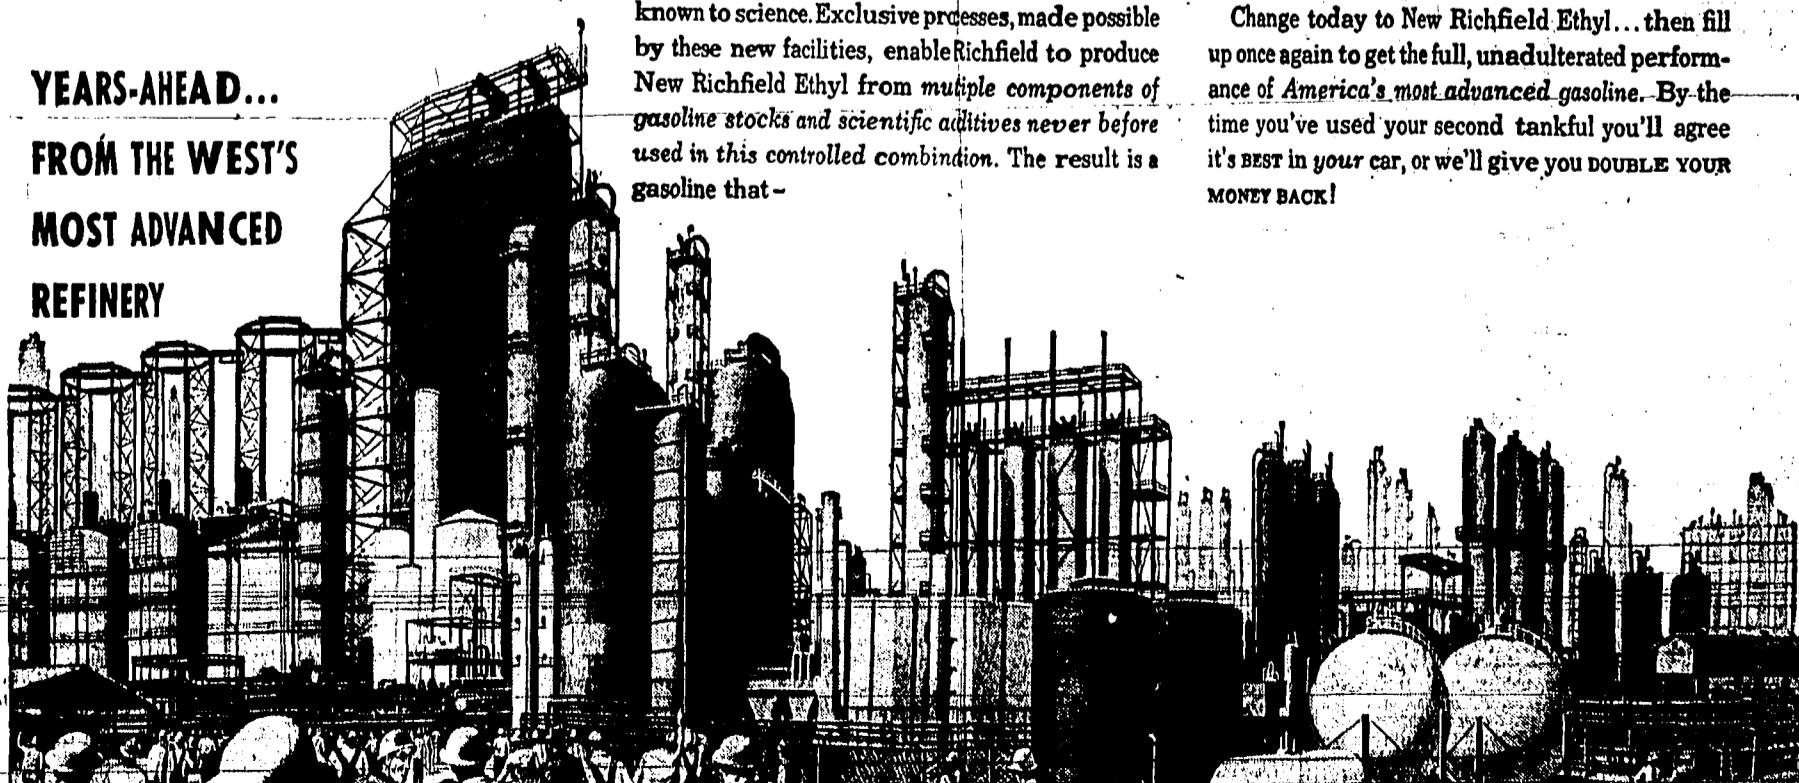

- Minimizes high-compression knock...reduces vapor lock stalling even on hottest days.

- Assures instant starting...ends most cold-engine stalling even in cold, wet, foggy weather.

- Protects and lubricates valves, valve stems and guides, upper cylinder walls and pistons...reduces combustion chamber deposits.

- Gives Rust-Proof protection against costly damage from rust and corrosion in gas tank, fuel lines, fuel pump and carburetor.

Change today to New Richfield Ethyl...then fill up once again to get the full, unadulterated performance of America's most advanced gasoline. By the time you've used your second tankful you'll agree it's BEST IN YOUR CAR, or we'll give you DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

"DO YOU KNOW YOU PAY 8¢ TAX ON EVERY GALLON OF GASOLINE? BEFORE TAXES, GASOLINE COSTS NO MORE THAN 25 YEARS AGO!"

June 1 (P)—Gov. Gen. Smith has called for a "real second-in-command" to make the lieutenant governor do what he wants him to do. Marine Hero Big Favorite For Election

PIERRE, S. D., June 1 (AP)—Joe Foss, World War II marine hero who shot down 28 planes, was heavily favored to win the Republican nomination for governor in today's primary.

Foss, 39, was opposed by Lieut.-Gov. Rex Terry and Attorney Harold O. Lund, but many experts rated him the "easy" victor.

A victory for Foss probably would make him the next governor of predominantly Republican South Dakota.

Loses by Few Votes

Foss, a congressional medal of honor winner, tried for the governorship in 1950 and lost by only a few votes. He has gained a statewide reputation as a farmer, businessman and state legislator.

About 110,000 South Dakotans were expected to vote today, although the campaign has been quiet and candidates for other top nominations were unopposed.

Heading the list of unopposed candidates was Republican Sen. Karl E. Mundt, who has become a national figure as chairman of the McCarthy-army hearings. His opponent next fall will be Democrat Kenneth Holum, a farmer and rural electrification leader.

Two Unopposed

The state's two top GOP congressmen, Harold O. Lovre and E. Y. Berry, likewise were unopposed.

The main Democratic race was for the gubernatorial nomination, matching Banker E. F. McKellips against rancher Ed C. Martin. Francis Dunn and Ed Satterlee were unopposed for the Democratic congressional nomination.

Leaders of both parties kept a sharp eye on the size of the Democratic vote. It has ranged between 20,000 and 30,000 in recent primaries, but Democrats have made vigorous efforts this year to revitalize their party.

3 Cadets Drowned In Swimming Pool

ROSWELL, N. M., June 1 (AP)—Three cadets at New Mexico Military Institute drowned in the college swimming pool during the annual final graduation ball last night.

Col. Charles F. Ward, commanding officer, immediately called off the ball and today's graduation ceremonies.

First reports said four cadets dived into the pool to start a pump creating bubble effects as part of the ball entertainment.

When they rose to the surface, fumes from dry ice used in the stunt overcame them. One boy was rescued and may recover.

Names were not immediately available.

Jailed

JEROME, June 1—Feliciano Ruiz, Jerome, is serving 10 days in the county jail for petty larceny. He appeared before Justice of the Peace Russell Shaud Monday and was fined $25 and sentenced to jail. Police Chief Fred Abrams signed the complaint.
